DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brunst in view of Marshall.

Brunst shows a composite panel having a structural layer core and a board layer or laminate member of wood. He does not discuss the use of a honeycomb structure for use as his core. However, the use of honeycomb is old and well known and "the use of honeycomb core materials for constructing lightweight panels or sandwich structures is well established" (col. 1, ln. 66) as taught by Marshall. He further shows that "board like" material is old in products such as Nomex (col 2, ln. 7). To have replace the core of Brunst with a honeycomb would have been obvious in order to make the panel lighter.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kim, Biersach, Koletzko, Baum, Gorges and Pratt show laminated structures.
